SHOCKER OF THE YEAR

Issue #7 (7!)

We here at WWE Magazine have a New Year's resolution, and it has absolutely nothing to do with improving our personal hygiene, working off that extra roll of quivering chin fat, or bettering ourselves in any way whatsoever. But we will pledge this: To deliver more kick-ass magazines in 2007, starting with this very special Best Of Issue. It's cover-to-cover action, from the first "holy sh*t" WWE photo on page 8, to the last cringe-worthy picture of editorial punching bag Matt Christensen on page 96. As for your New Year's resolution? To keep reading... because vowing to lose weight and quit eating Ding Dongs is a crock.

A dyed red mohawk and a sequined jacket that would make Liberace envious. And to crow about. Nevertheless, The Red Rooster threw himself into his role with gusto—flapping his arms like a drunken groomsman performing the Chicken Dance at a wedding reception.

Amuse Us!

WE STOP MVP BACKSTAGE AND DEMAND THAT HE MAKE US LAUGH...AT SOMETHING OTHER THAN HIS OUTFIT.

"A king decides he wants to find the bravest man in the land. So he announces, 'Anyone who can survive a jump off this 100-foot cliff, swim through these shark-infested waters, and run a lap around this island inhabited by voracious lions will receive $10 million, my Rolls-Royce and the hand of my virgin daughter. The first night, there are no takers. The second night, still, no takers. The third night, a brave man leaps from the cliff, swims for his life past the sharks, dodges the ravenous lions and scales back up the cliff. The crowd erupts in applause and the king declares, 'You've won my riches, my car and my virgin daughter's hand.' Completely out of breath, the hero responds, 'Listen, keep your money, your Rolls and your daughter. Just find me the motherfer who pushed me in the water!'"

May We Speak to Randy Orton, Please?

WE COLD-CALL ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENTIST RANDY ORTON OF MALIBU, CA, TO SEE IF HE HAS THE STUFF LEGENDS ARE MADE OF.

RANDY ORTON GOES BY THE HANDLE "THE LEGEND KILLER." WHAT SHOULD WE CALL YOU?

"The Weather God." I'm a sailor in my spare time, and I studied atmospheric science in college.

THE WEATHER GOD VS. THE LEGEND KILLER. SOUNDS EPIC.

I'd like to have that match on the deck of a boat during a small craft advisory.

ORTON HAS LEGIONS OF FEMALE FANS. WHO FLOCKS TO YOUR VESSEL?

I call them Rail Meat. When your boat's leaning over, I get about 10 people to sit on the windward rail, which is the side of the boat that's tipping up. They balance the boat so it stays upright.

HULK HOGAN AND TRIPLE H HAVE BEEFS WITH ORTON. WHO ARE YOU FEUDING WITH THESE DAYS?

The New Zealand Mud Snail. It's me against 40 million of them.

IN 2004, THE LEGEND KILLER BECAME THE YOUNGEST WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION IN HISTORY. BEAT THAT.

At 18, I was one of the youngest certified research divers at UC San Diego. I almost lost my life diving in Scripps Underwater Canyon. We were at 110 feet and my air supply ran out.

THE RKO IS A DEVASTATING FINISHING MOVE. ANY ACRONYMS IN YOUR ARSENAL?

Well, there's the AFR, or Accidental Fecal Release, which can sometimes happen in the creeks. When you have a small creek filled with 150 people, the bacteria can really multiply.

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?

We found Captain Lou Albano living in upstate New York, and invited ourselves over for tea and crumpets.

So, what's the Captain up to these days?

Appearances! I work about six or seven appearances a month, autograph signings and things like that. I also do a lot of charity work for Multiple Sclerosis. I'm still around. Often imitated, never duplicated.

Your best Andre the Giant story, please.

One night, I went out to a restaurant with Andre the Giant, and he drank 108 bottles of beer in one sitting. Just knocking them back, bing, bing, bing. When I drink five or six beers, I'm bombed! Andre and I had some good times together. Once, I was teasing him, so he grabbed me by the hair and held me in the air like a grape. I remember saying, "Whoa! Take it easy, boss!"

For the younger fans, please explain the rubber bands wrapped around your chin hair?

I started off using a rubber band twisted into my beard, and one time

"ANDRE GRABBED ME BY THE HAIR AND HELD ME IN THE AIR LIKE A GRAPE."

I decided to tape it to my ear and from there it went to my face. What can I say? It was a goofy look!

Goofier yet, you teamed up with Cyndi Lauper to launch the Rock 'n' Wrestling Connection. Why?

Cyndi was from Queens, and she'd come into a joint called Jilly's from time to time, where Sinatra and the Rat Pack would hang out. One time when I was there, she asked me if I'd be interested in doing a music video, which was "Girls Just Want to Have Fun." Everything took off from there. Cyndi and I are still friends today. I just saw her three weeks ago.

Appearing in music videos, starring as Mario on The Super Mario Bros. Super Show, managing The Wild Samoans...Hell, you must be a bazillionaire?

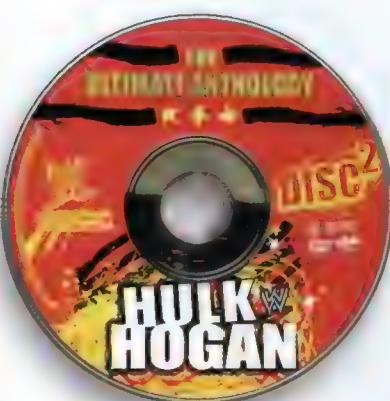

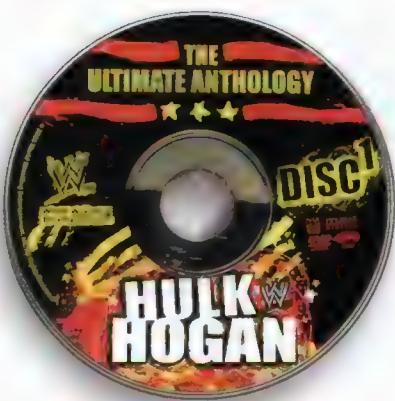

Today, wrestling is a multimillion dollar business. But when I first started in 1950, my best year I made $3,400. At that time, the police were making at least $3,500 a year. So it was like 70 bucks a week. We made a living at it and felt good about it, but we never imagined that it would become what it is today.

Missing the ring, huh?

I believe there's still an opening for having Captain Lou running in, telling a guy what to do, how to do it, where to do it and being a manager again.

"Wheeeee!"

1995: WRESTLING'S STRANGEST YEAR?

Men dressed as snorting bulls, Monster Truck matches and the Dungeon of Doom. The mid-'90s was a funny time in sports-entertainment. Funny how? You make the call.

JANUARY 22, 1995

The Royal Rumble bears witness to the debut of none other than...Mantaur. Wearing a moth-eaten bull's head while pawing and mooing, the giant bull is eliminated from the Rumble in less than 10 minutes. And from WWE's memory in just six months.

JULY 16, 1995

Those watching Wrestling Challenge receive a magical surprise when Phantasio, the wrestling magician, appears. Dressed like a mime in bondage gear, the Superstar's greatest achievement is making his opponent's underwear disappear. Presto!

OCTOBER 29, 1995

What can you say about Halloween Havoc? A pay-per-view that features Hulk Hogan and Big Show in a sumo-style monster truck match, and a main event featuring a "yeti" shambling to the ring in soiled wrappings? Then again, what can you say about us? We paid for it.

JUNE 18, 1995

Evad Sullivan, the dyslexic brother of Kevin (Get it? "Evad" is "Dave" spelled backward! Oh, never mind...), takes on Diamond Dallas Page in (sigh) an arm-wrestling contest. Really, people. Have we learned nothing from Over the Top?

NOVEMBER 26, 1995

In what would go down as the most confusing match ever broadcast, WCW's World War 3 is highlighted by a 60-man Battle Royal (won by Randy Savage), which takes place in not one but three rings. Among the competitors: Big Train Bart, Max Muscle and Kanyon. Yippee.

JANUARY 30, 1995

Journeymen wrestler David Sierra is routed by hot newcomer Aldo Montoya. Dubbed the Portuguese Man-O-War, Montoya was supposedly a high-flying sensation who wrestled to bring honor to his family. In reality, he was Justin Credible wearing a yellow jockstrap on his face.

MARCH 1995

As promotion for his appearance on the TV miniseries Lonesome Dove, Bret Hart appears on the cover of WWE Magazine in full cowboy garb, leaning against a hitching post with the cover line, "It's High Noon for the Hit Man!" Our bad.

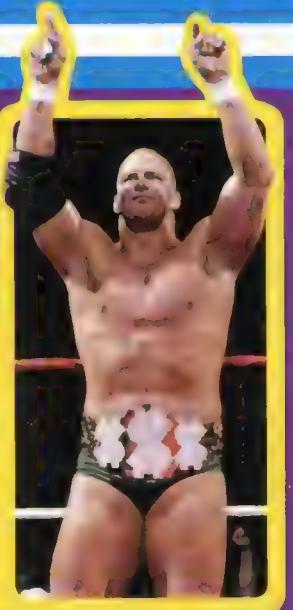

MAY 30, 1995

The first WCW Dungeon of Doom segment airs, featuring a beefy Kevin Sullivan running through the jungle at the behest of a fat, screaming, floating head. It is a dark portent of the lunacy to come.

MARCH 19, 1995

Blacktop Bully (aka Repo Man) faces Dustin Rhodes (aka Goldust) atop a (slowly) moving flatbed truck in sports-entertainment's only King of the Road match. The stipulation: Clamber into the cab and blow the horn for the victory. For the viewer to win? Just change the channel.

DECEMBER 1995

WWE hires an underused Superstar who had been fired from WCW via FedEx. He debuts as "The Ringmaster," but eventually uses his previous name: Steve Austin. You might have heard of him? Hell yeah for Stone Cold, and the beginning of one of the better years in wrestling history: 1996.

MY THREE FAVORITE MATCHES

THIS MONTH: BOBBY LASHLEY

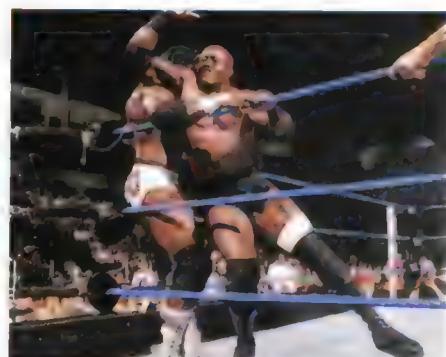

CHRIS BENOIT VS. BOOKER T BEST OF SEVEN SERIES, JUNE, 1998

"Those guys tried to kill each other! And each match just became more and more intense, and there was never a clear favorite. It was just two tough guys going at it and anyone could have won. Just a classic."

EDDIE GUERRERO VS. DEAN MALENKO TWO OUT OF THREE FALLS ECW ARENA, AUGUST 26, 1995

"That was two masterful minds going out there and having a barn burner. It was a high-energy match that went all over the mat. Amazing stuff."

BOBBY LASHLEY VS. KING BOOKER SMACKDOWN JUNE 16, 2006

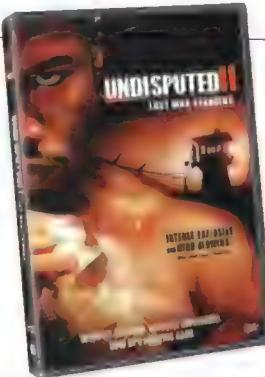

"Anytime I step out there with Booker, I learn something new. He brings your game to a whole new level. It's amazing how athletic and intense he is. When I get in the ring with someone like him, it makes me a better wrestler."

URBAN LEGEND OR HISTORICAL FACT?

We unravel WWE's most hotly-debated unsolved mysteries.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Legend or Fact? Howard Finkel coined the term WrestleMania.

Did the voice of WWE suggest the name for the most famous event in wrestling history? According to The Fink himself: "That's true. We were in a brainstorming meeting in 1984, and I threw the term out there. We were 20 years removed from The Beatles, but 'Beatlemania' was still fresh in everyone's minds. Why not WrestleMania?" Now, who's responsible for WCW Hog Wild? FACT

BREAKING THE CAMEL'S BACK

Legend or Fact? The Iron Sheik invented the camel clutch.

The Sheik is best known for his hatred of the U.S.A., that crafty 'stache and his "seated rear chinlock" finisher, which he dubbed the camel clutch. But the person responsible for inventing the hold was actually Salvador "Gory" Guerrero (Eddie's father, and Chavo's grandfather), who called his move "La de a Caballo." Sorry, Sheik. But, you do still have the coolest boots ever. LEGEND

FOOL'S GOLDBERG

William Regal purposely embarrassed Goldberg by out-wrestling him on WCW TV.

What's the quickest way to get fired from WCW? Make their number one draw look like a dizzy mongoloid by wrestling circles around him and completely nullifying his juggernaut offense. That worked for William Regal when, on the February 9, 1998 Nitro, he went one-on-one with the undefeated Goldberg. Instead of giving in to Goldberg's monstrous power, Regal used his technical skills to embarrass the rookie before ultimately being defeated. For his effort, Regal was fired immediately after the match. And people wonder why WCW ain't around anymore. FACT

JOURNEY BACK TO THE YEAR WHEN BRUCE WILLIS DIED HARD AND PAULA ABDUL WAS FOREVER YOUR GIRL.

ROYAL RUMBLE

On January 28, a WWE tradition returns as the much-anticipated Royal Rumble debuts on the 20th Anniversary. Conceived by Tom Patterson, the 30-man free-for-all is running soon in sellout. The fact that WWE's Jim Duggan is the first-ever winner is just the icing on the cake. Hooper!

JAMAICAN BOBSLED TEAM

The Caribbean island sends four warm, brave souls to compete in the Calgary Winter Games. The result: Many amusing crashes and failures, which in turn inspired Disney's commercially successful calamity Cool Runnings. Tanks, Coach!

BRADDOCK: MISSING IN ACTION III

Chuck Norris re-ups for duty in the third installment of his POW trilogy. The plot is a mishmash of dictators, orphaned children and perfectly-styled beards. This film also paved the way for Top Dog and Sidekicks.

SKYSCRAPER

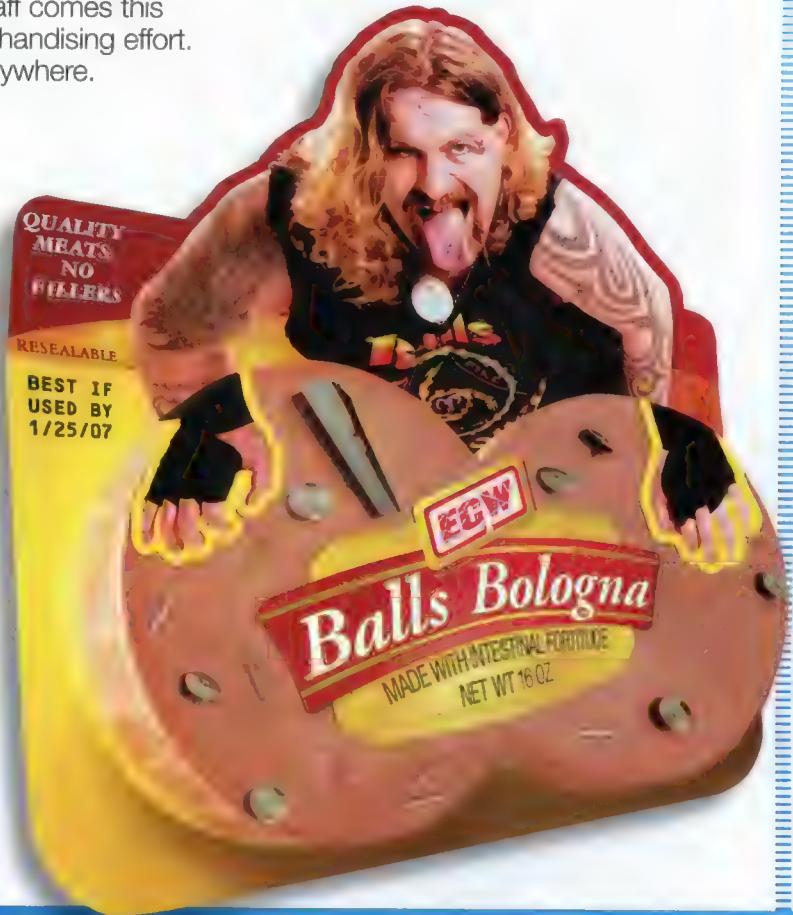

The second effort from former Van Halen front-man David Lee Roth hits shelves on January 21. The top-selling record proves to be the peak of Diamond Dave's career, unless you count the country album Strummin' With the Devil. We don't.

WOULD YOU BUY THIS?

From our febleminded staff comes this incredibly half-baked merchandising effort. Absolutely not available anywhere.

Hey kids! Tired of trudging off to school with those same godawful Lunchables? Can't face another day of Sloppy Joes and soggy tater tots? Take recess to the extreme with the new Balls Bologna. One bite of this processed deli meat and you'll be ready to put your school bully right through a flaming cafeteria table! As an added bonus, Balls Bologna is packed with iron-rich staples, tacks and razors. Served best with ECW Farms' own Sand-Manwiches.

"My bologna has a first name, it's B-A-L-L-S."

DID YOU BUY THIS?

Whether used as a way to keep warm or a kick-ass wall hanging in your freshman dorm room, this WWE blanket was the mark of the fan whose tastes leaned towards the more refined. Did you shell out your hard-earned paper route money for this work of art? If so, send us a picture of yourself nestled under the throw blanket to magazine@wwe.com and we'll throw you an autograph from a WWE Superstar! That way, you'll have two things to hang on your wall, one of which won't induce disapproving stares from your girl.

She said "I'm a champion, a fighter. I put it out there the same as anyone."

She said "Because I'm crazy, I'll try anything once."

Diva Doppelgänger? With adorable looks like that, Maria may have some kiss-cam competition.

She said "I've got two older brothers, so I'm tough as hell."

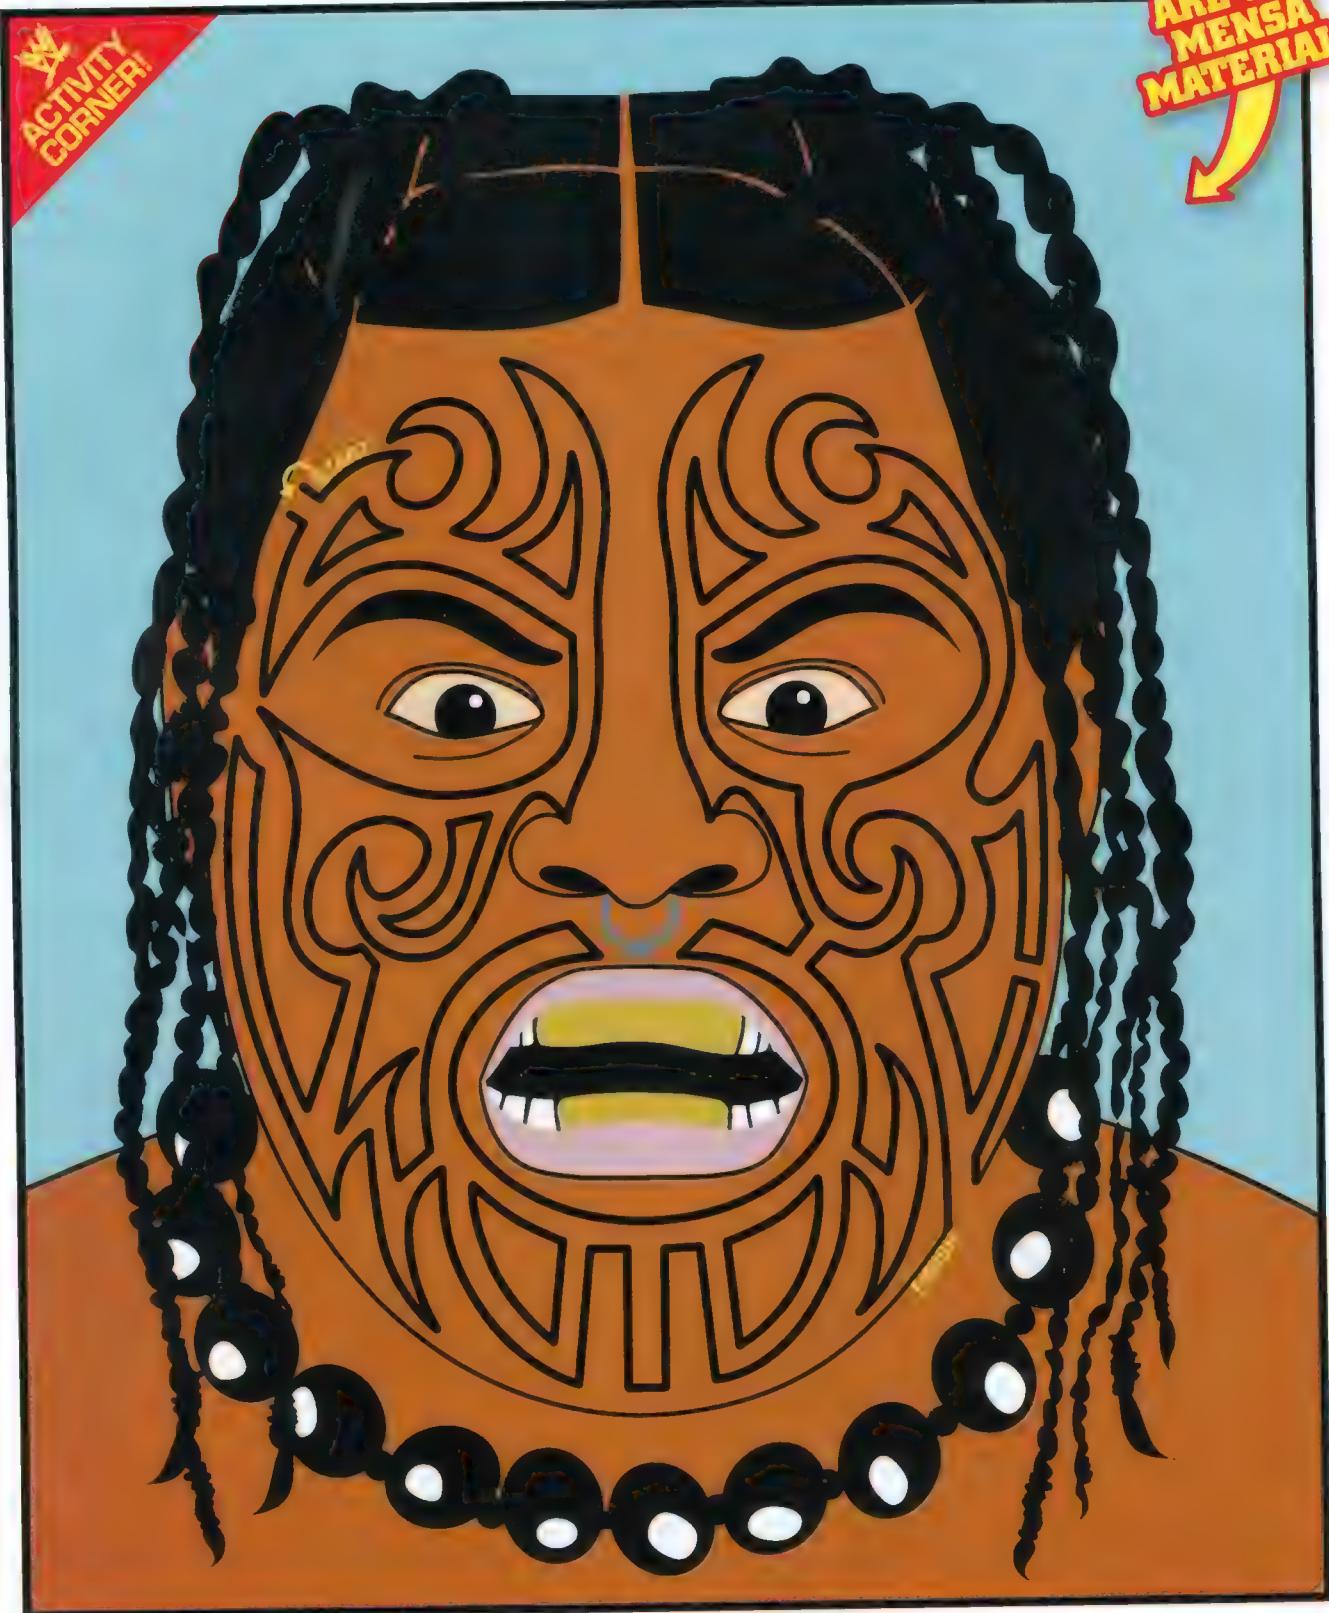

Diva Doppelgänger? A tough broad with streaks of red? Screams Lita!

She said "You can't be a wimp. You've got to have sass."

Diva Doppelgänger? Master the art of the striptease, and you could be the next Candice Michelle.

UNSPOrtsMAN-LIKE CONDUCT?

Imagine if these WWE manuevers were legal in the NFL!

The Super Bowl could be the introduction of WWE moves up to the gridiron. Former Hall of Famer Ric Flair (in the foreground) explains why not.

WWE Move
Body slam
NFL Penalty

Holding! "Any illegal use of the hand will result in a five or 10-yard penalty. I imagine some of the death grips wrestlers use would probably result in an Unnecessary Roughness call, which would be an automatic first down for the opposing team."

WWE Move
Attacking an opponent before the bell
NFL Penalty

Encroachment or False Start! "If the defense moves before the snap, it's Encroachment. If the offense does, it's a False Start. Either way, it's five yards, which isn't a huge loss, but definitely a penalty."

WWE Move
Hitting the ref
NFL Penalty

Striking an Official! "If it's deliberate, it's an automatic disqualification, 15 yards and a heavy fine. On the other hand, if the official gets bumped by accident, then it won't cost the player. Sometimes officials just get in the way; it's inevitable."

WWE Move
Grabbing the mic and insulting a rival
NFL Penalty

Taunting! "But, only if it's directed at another player. If directed at an official, it would be Unsportsmanlike Conduct. That'd cost you 15 yards. Getting on the mic? That would definitely result in immediate disqualification."

WWE Move
Hiding a foreign object in your trunks
NFL Penalty

Illegal Equipment! "Players can't wear or show any item that is not league-approved. Any type of foreign object used to showboat, like a cell phone or a Sharpie, would result in an automatic disqualification, a 15-yard penalty and a very hefty fine."

WE HAVE A CONTEST WINNER!

Congrats to Sean Hummel of Sanford, FL, who was randomly chosen from all correct August "Guess the Match" entries to win Ric Flair's autographed robe. Here's what he had to say about his unexpected victory:

"After scoring this robe, I was able to channel the Nature Boy. I started strutting, chopping the hell out of guys, and taking girls for rides on Space Mountain! Woooo! Thank you WWE Magazine!"

MOTHER GOOSED!

Dear WWE Magazine,
This is an open letter to the jerk who stole our bag of WWE merchandise at the October 27, 2006, Raw Live Event in Des Moines, IA. After the last match of the evening, we made the mistake of inching forward a few feet to get a picture of John Cena. That's when you reached under our seats and emptied our bag. Not only did you steal shirts my children were so excited to wear, you also stole my son's 7th grade football jersey, which he had tossed in the bag for "safe keeping." This shirt was of no value to you, but priceless to him. Hope you're proud of yourself. I think you suck!

Ann McCall
Iowa Falls, IA

Ann,
If it's true that "karma is a bitch," this jerk will likely lose something of value to him very soon—perhaps his manhood in prison? Meanwhile, we're sending a package of WWE merch, including spankin' new T-shirts, to your kids. Buck up, little guys.

A READER WRESTLES WITH GOD

Dear WWE Magazine,
Thanks for the interview with Shawn Michaels ("Road To Redemption," December). As an agnostic, I agree with Shawn that he shouldn't always have to explain the balancing act of being a Christian in a secular world. Some people say he's a hypocrite, yet no one ever thought twice about Eddie Guerrero, also a born-again Christian, and his mantra of "lie, cheat, and steal." What's the difference, people?

John Terrie Neilson,
Las Vegas, NV

Terrie,
That letter hurt our fragile little minds. We're not nearly smart enough to debate issues of theology with you. Anyone out there have an answer for the brainy lady?

MOST SUPER OF FANS?

Dear WWE Magazine,
In recent publications, you've featured wrestling "Superfans." I put them all to shame. I've been watching wrestling for the last 16 years straight (no breaks!). But the real evidence of my commitment is my vast collection, which includes more than 500 action figures, every WWE Magazine since January 1993, 500 videotapes of PPVs, TV shows and home video releases, obscure WWE merch (lunchboxes, lighters and phone cards), 50-plus WWE T-shirts and few dozen Superstar and Diva autographs. My most prized possession, though? A Blue Blazer figure, mint in package. Beat that.

BIG NIGHT

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO THROW THE ULTIMATE WWE BASH!

FEAST AND FURIOUS

Behold, 10 things to help you host a Raw, SmackDown or ECW screening party for the ages.*

TURBOCHARGED COUCH

Chances are you'll never park your seat in the driver's seat of a Porsche 917...but on one's hood? This fiberglass seat replicates the front end of the venerable racecar, which has been slathered in nine luxurious coats of automotive paint for a stunning finish. Dig the working headlights, too! $7,500; inspired-design-uk.com

KICK IN A CAN

With ingredients like taurine and horny goat weed, as well as a slamming endorsement from us, RAW Attitude is the baddest energy drink that doesn't require ID. Chock-full of essential vitamins and nutrients, it's the perfect pick-me-up for staying awake through mid-terms, or WCW Spring Stampede marathons. $2; sockoenergy.com

BONE MEAL

There's really no way to make eating a bowl of Honey Bunches of Oats look tough—but scarfing almond nut-clusters from a durable ceramic bowl decorated with pixilated skulls helps. These macabre containers from Sprout Home come in two sizes—5-inch and 10-inch, and much like real skeletons, are microwave and dishwasher safe. $18.75; sprouthome.com

GOOMBA OVEN

With its hand-fabricated stainless steel body, smoking drawer (for infusing food with that wood-fire taste) and a cooking surface made of professional composite baking stone, the Outdoor Artisan Pizza Oven from Kalamazoo Outdoor Gourmet is the real deal. Don't even think of degrading it with Polly-O mozzarella, ya gavone. $4,000; kalamazogourmet.com

HOT POTATO

Available in such varieties as Parmesan Habanero, Cracked Crab, Jalapeño-Cheddar and Cajun, Blair's Death Rain Potato Chips maintain that perfect balance of flavor and mouth-scorching heat. Each chip is laced with Red Savina Habanero pepper, which is twice as spicy as traditional Habaneros and up to 65 times as hot as a jalapeño. Keep the fire hose handy. $2; extremefood.com

* Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays only. Pay-per-views are for you and the lady, yo.

6BELLY UP TO THE BAR

You know those stupid weighted bodysuits some women force their husbands to wear, so the guys can appreciate the symptoms of pregnancy? Well, we think all chicks should be forced to strap on the Beerbelly, an 80-ounce bladder (with drinking hose) that stores more than a six-pack's worth of liquid. This way, she can appreciate the symptoms of being a suds-swilling dude. Hey, fair is fair. $50; thebeerbelly.com

BLOW-UP BUDDY

Some of the best things in life are inflatable, like your imaginary friend, Jenny.. and the Ozone Lounger. This blow-up sofa is made of heavy-duty PVC and comes equipped with two built-in speakers for hooking in mostly any audio source. The best part is, all you need for setup is the included pump (which is not of the Swedish variety, perv). $30; target.com

87*SKATE OR DIE!

Modeled after the coin-op arcade machines of yore, ESPN's Face-Off Rod Hockey Table is foosball on fake ice. The ergonomic handles allow for incredible shot accuracy, while the electronic scoreboard and speakers provide crowd sounds so realistic you'll want to drop the gloves and pummel your friend's face into putty. $400; sears.com

9HOG MEAT

Few things are more viscerally satisfying than tearing up the asphalt on a V-Twin custom hog. Add a 3.25-ounce package of perfectly seasoned beef jerky into the equation, and you just might achieve biker Nirvana. Harley-Davidson's new line of dried meat comes in three road-tested flavors including original, pepper and teriyaki, none of which will taste like your weathered leather jacket. $6; harley-davidson.com

10VID GAME ENHANCER

Strap on the Trimersion 3001 AD Head Mounted Display and thrill to VR simulations of Xbox, PS2 and PC games. The headset-gun combo is ideal for use with first-person shooters, but will work with nearly any genre of game to deliver 360-degrees of Tron-like fantasy. $400; trimersion.com

EDGE'S BEEFY ORBS

A tasty recipe, courtesy of The Tampa Brickyard, the Rated-R Superstar's favorite Florida restaurant.

DL
Not very
R-rated

"When I'm at home, my posse and I will always visit The Brickyard, because I'm too lazy to cook. I will even have them cater special events at my casa...and these meatballs are always on the menu. Why? Ground beef is a good source of protein. And these meatballs are ridiculously large, matching only the size of my own pair."

Edge's Swedish Meatballs

INGREDIENTS

1/2 lb. each veal and pork (ground together)
1 cup bread crumbs
2 eggs
1 cup half and half cream
1 tsp. salt

1/2 cup ketchup or tomato sauce
1/2 tsp. pepper
1/2 tsp. allspice
2 tbsp. freshly chopped parsley

DIRECTIONS

1. Mix all ingredients thoroughly and refrigerate for several hours. Form large round balls.
2. Fry in a little butter until brown.
3. Place meatballs in covered casserole dish and bake at 325°-350°F degrees for 30 minutes.

What The Hell Stew

The Miz's confusingly delicious concoction.

"I came up with this on my own and eat it almost everyday. It's easy to make and tastes great. Every time I cook this for someone, they look at it and go, 'What the hell is this?' And I go, 'Exactly.' And they say, 'Alright,' try it, and end up loving it. It's that amazing."

INGREDIENTS

1 box, Creamy Four Cheese Rice-A-Roni
1 can, green beans
1 lb. ground beef
Ketchup

DIRECTIONS

1. Cook Creamy Four Cheese Rice-A-Roni as indicated on the package.
2. At the same time, brown ground beef in a skillet.
3. Combine green beans, ground beef, and Rice-A-Roni.
4. Flavor generously with ketchup.

KNOWLEDGE

PEARLS OF WISDOM FROM
WWE'S SHREWDEST SUPERSTARS.

DIVAS UNCENSORED

WWE's resident sexperts, Kelly, Michelle and Candice answer your salacious questions about Vegas hookups, online dating and "man stink."

What happens in Vegas stays in Vegas. Does this apply to Reno and Atlantic City, too?

Candice You've clearly never been to Atlantic City or Reno. Nothing happens in either town.

Kelly I've always subscribed to "What happens in another zip-code, stays in another zip-code."

Michelle Yeah, but any guy or girl who says that "What happens in..., stays in..." is up to no good. Run.

Candice Hey—"What goes around, comes around." Whatever you're doing behind someone's back while on the road, they're probably doing behind yours, too, while you're gone.

Look at this page while performing your own "deep tissue massage."

Every time I shower with my girl, I wind up shivering in the corner as she washes her hair. How can I take control?

Candice You don't. Just sit back and enjoy the show. Isn't there something you can do with the soap and one hand to make it more fun for you in the meantime?

Kelly Your man does that in front of you? Yuck.

Candice He can't look at me without doing it.

"ISN'T THERE SOMETHING YOU CAN DO WITH THE SOAP AND ONE HAND TO MAKE IT MORE FUN FOR YOU?"

Michelle Men can't look at anything without doing it. Back to the question, though—I think you probably shouldn't be showering together unless you've got a showerhead capable of spraying both of you down at the same time. Nothing worse than looking at a guy's shrinkage.

A girl I just started seeing says her last boyfriend was lazy and dumb, but she stayed with him for two years. He must've had something going for him. Should I be worried?

Candice What, that he had a big Johnson?

Michelle Maybe she was the dumb one for sticking with him. Be concerned.

Kelly I wouldn't be too worried; maybe she was just keeping him around until she found something better. I've put off breaking up with guys just 'cause I knew it was going to be painful.

Candice There are more important things in the world than a big member. Not many, but there are. If she likes you, she likes you. Trust me.

My girlfriend just moved to Finland and wants to engage in phone sex. I'm no good at it. Please advise.

Candice Calling her in Finland probably costs more than calling an actual phone sex line. My advice to you is: work fast or those phone bills are gonna kill you.

Michelle I don't do phone sex. I've never tried it.

Kelly Me neither, but I bet I'd be good at it.

Michelle I'd like to hear you try. Come on.

Kelly "What are you wearing right now?...I'm not wearing anything...I'm on my back and I'm thinking of you..."

Where should my hands be?"

Michelle That was pretty good. I have to admit I was impressed.

Kelly Thanks. The trick is...there's no trick. Just don't laugh during it. That would ruin the mood.

Are women really attracted to sweaty guys?

Candice A little "guy smell" is never a bad thing, but if you're sweaty and stinky, that's no good.

Kelly They need a good body to go along with it, too. If it's some fat dude we're talking about, sweat isn't sexy.

Michelle Oh God, I sat next to one of those guys on the plane yesterday. I nearly threw up. He smelled like a mix of ass, feet and pickles.

My friends think I'm a wuss for antiquing with my girlfriend. Am I?

Michelle Who cares what your friends think...

Candice Yeah, you can't sleep with them, so what's it matter?

Kelly Antiquing does sound kind of girlie, though. And old. My mom probably does that. I like my men manly—they shouldn't be embarrassed to burp or fart in front of me—and they shouldn't do things my mom does. Sorry.

I met someone online but I refuse to go out with her until I see her picture. Am I being shallow?

Candice Shallow? No. Stupid? Yes. What makes you think the picture is really going to be accurate anyway?

Michelle True. She might send a picture that was taken in ninth grade, even though she's, like, 30 years old now.

Kelly I'm on MySpace; people e-mail me through that. When I see them at our shows, they usually look like their pictures. But I would never date someone I met online. I'd be too scared they might be psycho or something.

A scene from Cocoon III.

QUESTION OF THE MONTH

What can I put on my coffee table to impress dates?

Candice How about a pair of 'deez nuts!

Kelly You don't have nuts.

Candice No, but he does. I know I'd be impressed if a guy was confident enough to show me what he's working with. Just throw 'em down. I wanna see.

Michelle Yeah, I'd go with a nice photobook.

Kelly Or flowers.

Michelle Or pictures of your family.

Kelly Or snacks.

Candice What, like 'deez nuts?

Q I just moved into a new place and I'm kind of strapped for cash. Think girls will be grossed out if I buy a used mattress?

A Kelly Couldn't you just buy a blow-up bed? They're cheap. And in. And God forbid a hurricane hits, the two of you can float away together.

Candice Anything is used mattress...real

Michelle Why? It's no different from the hotel bed. I think about how many other people have slept on them before you. As long as the sheets are nice and clean, no one will ever know the difference.

Nothing dresses up a bikini bottom like a white towel.

DOG TAGS

WTF!

"Dog tags are so close to my heart because my brother is in the Army. When he's home, he has his dog tags hanging up there. I always give guys who display them the thumbs up."

MARDI GRAS BEADS

WTF!

"Usually, beads mean he has a fun personality. He could be a bit of a party animal. If a girl has them, though, you know she's been flashing her boobs, and might a bit whorish. If you're looking for that kind of thing, why not pull up next to her and have fun?"

MILK AND MINT BEADS

WTF!

"The blending of different smells is just gross! It says a guy is lazy and cannot commit. Pick one and be done with it."

GARTER

COSY!

"I don't know if you've seen a working day garter hanging from his mirror. So I think it's a really sweet thing."

SUPERIOR SLEIGH RIDES

Chrysler Aspen

Like some kind of monster Hemi-powered snowblower, the Chrysler Aspen effortlessly plows through white powder and laughs in the face of severe storm advisories. When heavy towing is called for, winter drivers will appreciate the 5.7-liter V-8, which packs 335hp for ascending icy embankments. It's no guzzler on the highway, though, as it offers an adjustable and economical four-cylinder mode. A remote starter heats up the interior as passengers keep warm in the lodge, and ridiculously roomy seating for eight provides a comfy ride to the nearest après ski martini mingler. Now that is a miracle on 34th Street. $31,500 (rear-wheel drive), $34,265 (all-wheel drive); chrysler.com

The Aspen packs three rows of seating to accommodate eight passengers.

The 311hp V-8 boasts 0-60 in 6.5 seconds.

Volvo S80

The hearty Swedes know a thing or two about ice and snow. Under a sleek, streamlined Scandinavian design, Volvo's all-wheel-drive S80 boasts a high-performance machine that's keen on safety and performance. Adaptive cruise control, blind spot and collisions warning systems (employing cameras positioned in the outside mirrors) and patented steel construction for absorbing crash energy make this one of the safest rides on a wintry road. But don't be deceived: This isn't your mother's grocery-getter. The S80's powerful V-8 is packed with 311hp, 325lbs/ft of torque. The sedan goes on sale in February. $47,350; volvo.com

ON-DASH DVD PLAYER
The Alpine IVA-W200 is the whole enchilada for on-road entertainment. A motorized 6.5-inch LCD display, integrated receiver and touch screen controls make playing DVDs, CDs and MP3s as easy as speeding. $1100; www.alpine-usa.com

NACHOS FOR THE ROAD

When a bag of Tostitos is riding shotgun, be sure to plug in the Sharper Image Hot+Cold Mini Fridge to a 12V DC socket: It'll keep your nacho cheese from congealing and your guac from turning a dirty brown. $100; sharperimage.com

BURNING QUESTION!

Q What is a tuner kit and should I invest in one?

A A tuner kit can add performance to a plain-Jane factory car. If your vehicle is naturally aspirated (in other words, a wimpy non-turbo), consider an intake modification, which increases the air-to-fuel ratio for improved hp and fuel efficiency. This type of tuning runs about $800, and a knowledgeable mechanic should be able to steer you in the right direction. When money is not an issue, a high-performance exhaust, head, cam, and lightweight parts can bring out your ride's inner speed demon.

Maria adds For permanent power, investigate turbochargers and superchargers that compress engine airflow for serious oomph. These start at about $2,500, plus additional parts and labor.

GENIUS ADVICE

IT'S NOT A PTOLEMAIC PLANETARY MODEL,
JUST GOOD ADVICE FROM MR. KENNEDY. KENNEDY.

NEVER REGRET ANYTHING

Regret sucks—plain and simple. I've made a lot of mistakes in my life, but there's not one I regret. I've always been able to learn something from those situations.

LISTEN TO HER

Women just need to be listened to. Don't give 'em advice unless they specifically ask for it. When they start "cryboxing," all you have to do is listen to them. It'll all be over soon.

MANAGE YOUR STRESS

The best way to relieve stress is by smashing things. Anything you can get your hands on. Or, get a dog. No matter how crappy a day you've had, your dog will always be your little buddy. Just don't combine the two stress-relief methods.

ALWAYS GO FOR THE GOLD

When I began to pursue wrestling my uncle told me, "You can do anything you put your mind to." You're only young once, and you might be the guy who looks back and thinks, "Could I have done it?" I didn't want to be that guy.

WALK THE THIN LINE

My girlfriend always says, "If I ever get fat, please tell me." Yeah, right. Never, ever, ever do that. Instead, have someone send her an anonymous e-mail.

JACK IS WHACK

Jack Black is the most annoying thing in the world. What annoys me is that other people think he's funny. He's not. End of story.

DON'T ACCEPT YOUR FATE

Fate is crap. There is no such thing as fate. If fate existed, why would anyone have any reason to put forth effort?

SWALLOW, DON'T SPIT

Pride isn't important. In fact, it can get you in a lot of trouble. Swallow your pride and never be too proud to admit that you're wrong. Remember—you catch more flies with honey than vinegar. Or, something.

KO THE B.O.

The one thing that's more important than Febreeze and cologne is taking a shower.

THE 2006 WWE MAGAZINE AWARDS

We're doling out awards! Join us as we celebrate the Superstars and Divas who brought greatness (or shame) to WWE in the past year.

SICKEST BUMP

EDGE GOING THROUGH A STACK OF TABLES, UNFORGIVEN

"When I'm 50 years old and in pain every morning, I'll be able to attribute it to that hit. It's about time people started to realize that there really isn't anyone more hardcore than me. All these ECW guys claim to be hardcore, but I'm the master of the TLC and ladder match; I've been in more than anyone else in this industry. Dumb bastards." —EDGE

SUPERSTAR OF THE YEAR

JOHN CENA

"I'm honored that I'm Superstar of the Year, because there's a group out there that means a helluva lot to me. From the galleries, to I can do it, honey, a helluva lot. I always go back to the WWE Network, because there's a million people that love me, and 15 million that hate me. I'll take care of the haters that hate me, and everybody else can go to hell." —JOHN CENA

JERK OF THE YEAR

EDGE

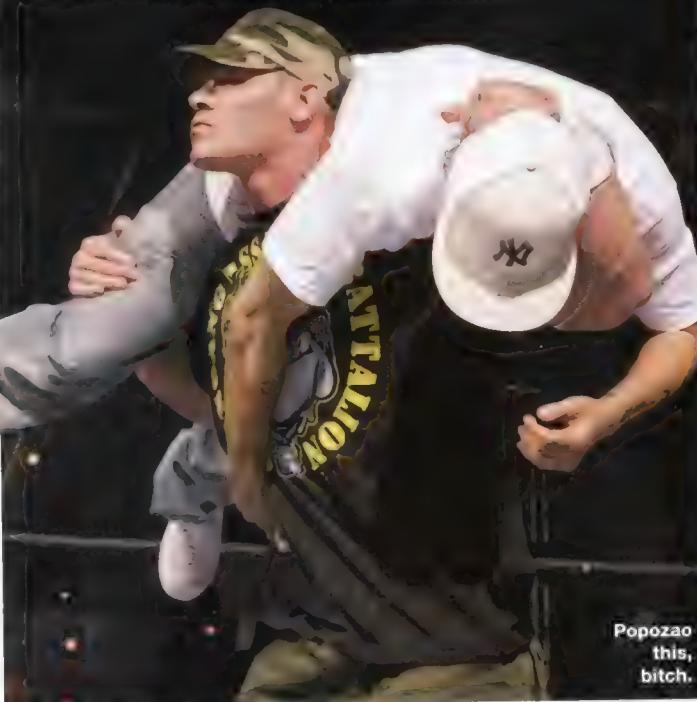

"There are far greater jerks in the world, like DX or John Cena. However I will revel in this award. I will pretend that being Jerk of the Year is a nice, hot bathtub full of bubbly soap, and I will sit in it till my hands get pruny. I will bathe in my own jerkiness juices." —EDGE

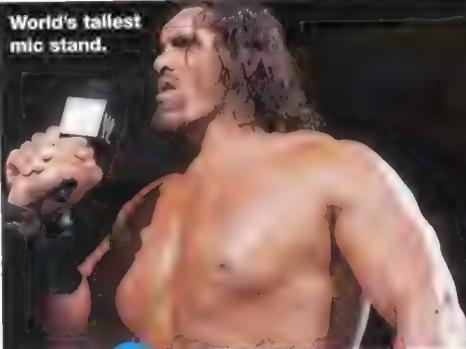

MOST APPLAUDED CELEBRITY CAMEO

K-FED, 10/16 RAW

From the second he emerged from the curtain with his half-cocked cap and crooked smirk, he instantly repulsed millions of viewers, who took sick pleasure in watching Cena methodically dissect him with a vicious FU. Now that's quality TV.

World's tallest mic stand.

WORST MIC SKILLS

The Great Khali

"When he's speaking—either in English or Hindi—it sounds like he has a mouthful of marbles. I don't know if his tongue's too big for his jaw, or his jaw's too big for his tongue, but nothing comes out right. He even sneezes weird. Poor guy."—DAIVARI

GOD-AWFUL RING GEAR VISCERA

"People don't understand how Awesomeness is cool. When I try to tell them, they're like, 'I don't care.' I don't care. Make love and leave. I didn't try to make it look good and nice. I just did what I did. You know who doesn't like my gear? Girls. I don't care. What you like doesn't matter."—VISCERA

STALEST GO-TO JOKE

DX COCK REFERENCES

"Well, according to Vince, cock never gets old. The more cock, the merrier, and the more it's around the better you feel. I don't go for it myself, I'm just going by what Vince enjoys."—TRIPLE H

BEST ENTRANCE MUSIC

Daivari

"It's something that makes me stand out. It's a weird pop culture phenomenon, and I can't explain it. It's the perfect calling card for me. It gets in your head. People come unglued as soon as they hear it, and start boozing. It's like a Pavlov dog response."—DAIVARI

FAN LETTER OF THE YEAR

"MIRACULOUS" M. TYMKIN

"Your charisma leapes (sic) off those pages and chopes (sic) me!" So wrote Tymkin in a seven page opus. His subject: Kristin Bowman, our first "Female Superfan" (September). A love connection? It would be "miraculous."

HALE OF FAME

WORST MISCUE

CHARLIE HAAS BUMPS

LILIAN GARCIA OFF THE RING

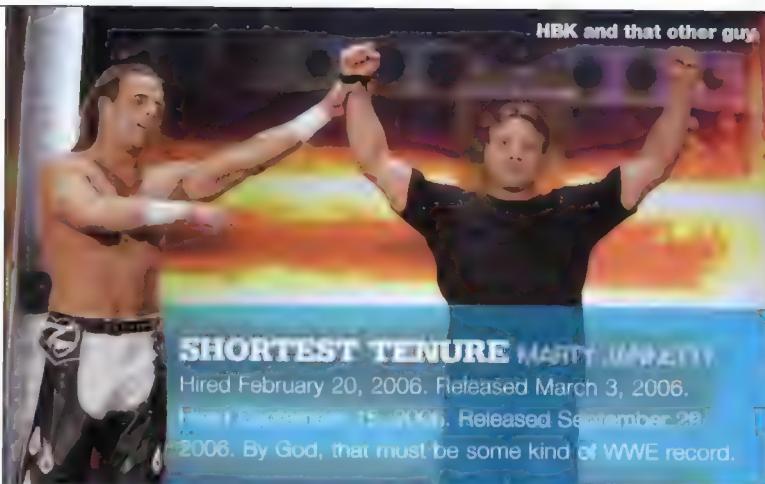

APRON, JUNE 5 RAW

"This is the only business that lets you knock a girl on her ass and get rewarded for it. I think it's great!"—CHARLIE HAAS

"Let's face it, I'm not a wrestler and that was not supposed to happen. I had no idea it was such a big deal until all my friends started texting me."

—LILIAN GARCIA

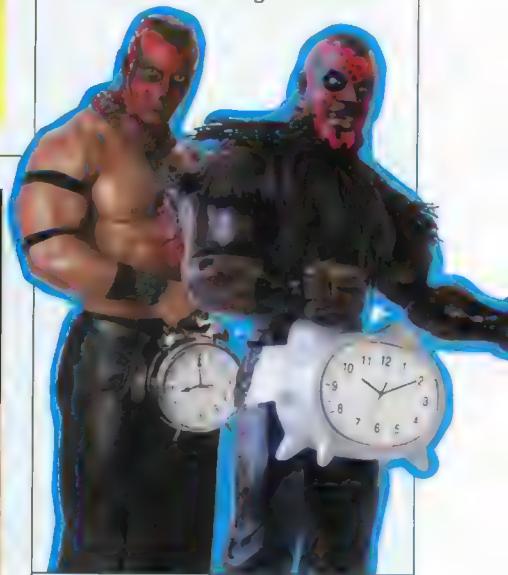

GOOD RIDDANCE AWARD

Kurt Angle
What's the best way to re-invent yourself? Walk out at the peak of your career! Worked wonders for Lex Luger and Randy Savage.

BEST ACTION FIGURE REPRESENTATION

THE BOOGEYMAN

The clock accessory is less-than-stellar. Still, the Ruthless Aggression Series 20 Boogeyman figure is the most accurate/badass figure of 2006.

MOST UNDERRATED SUPERSTAR

FINLAY

"Being voted Most Underrated Superstar is a small compliment. I've been wrestling a long time—maybe people have forgotten. I've been off for five or six years. The fans forgot what I was all about, so I think it was new to them when I burst onto the scene. They like my style, I guess. The fans love a guy that loves to fight. There's also a little guy hiding under the ring that might have something to do with it, too." —FINLAY

CM Punk

This means I'm the most exciting new guy you have seen this year, and considering I debuted so late in the year, I've had quite an impact. The fans are my best, and they say I'm doing well. I must be. I hope to continue improving them, I guess I'm different. Don't judge a book by its cover—a lot of people get an idea of who I am based on my image, but I'm completely different. A lot of kids identify with that." —CM PUNK

NEWCOMER OF THE YEAR

Justin Credible? Just unfortunate.

MOST BODILY HARM

HARDCORE HOLLY'S BACK IS SLICED AFTER GOING THROUGH A TABLE, 9/26 ECW

(Editor's Note: This grisly laceration was so heinous you could see the muscles beneath Holly's splayed-open skin. Eww.]
"I rolled over and saw this big ol' puddle of blood. I blame RVD for everything. I wish I could say getting this recognition makes up for it, but it doesn't." —

HARDCORE HOLLY

MATCH WE HOPE WE NEVER SEE AGAIN

PUNJABI PRISON MATCH, GREAT AMERICAN BASH

It was extremely brutal...in all the wrong ways.

MOST IMPROVED

King Booker

"I've been doing this 16 years and I've always taken the role I was given and ran with it. It means a lot, being the World Heavyweight Champion and the focal point of the show. I do feel like one of those guys who has been overlooked, underestimated. They're finally getting their money's worth out of me." —KING BOOKER

Five faces of cheer.

TAG TEAM OF THE YEAR

SPIRIT SQUAD

"This was very expected. No one else could hang with us. We were champions for most of the year, and it was a pretty easy ride, too. I can't even think of any teams in our league." —NICKY

WORST HAIR

Paul Heyman

"Considering the taste of the audience, I'm actually very flattered. You're talking about an audience that thinks Triple H's hairstyle is cool; heck, he can't decide whether to look like Lemmy or Dog the Bounty Hunter. It all starts at the top, with the Chairman of the Board, whose pompadour looks like John Travolta in Saturday Night Fever. And I'm supposed to be offended?" —PAUL HEYMAN

MOST LUXURIOUS HAIR

"I don't really put that much thought into it, but apparently everybody likes it. I use Miller Lite in my hair when I shower, and that's a man law." —Triple H

STAYING OUT OF TROUBLE AWARD

Ric Flair

For not getting arrested once in 2006

[Editor's note: In 2005, Ric got busted in a road rage incident. His fans heaved a sigh of relief as their hero avoided extracurricular drama in '06.]

"I have a lot of notoriety in North Carolina. I don't regret what happened. But this year I've been walking on tacks, no pun intended. Whatever I do in Charlotte, I do carefully." —RIC FLAIR

HOME INVASION OF THE YEAR

WWE-branded Pizza Boxes

Pie lovers everywhere were treated to boxes plastered with Superstars' faces. It was a brilliant, albeit strange, marketing tactic that, thankfully, did not employ Umaga's snarling mug.

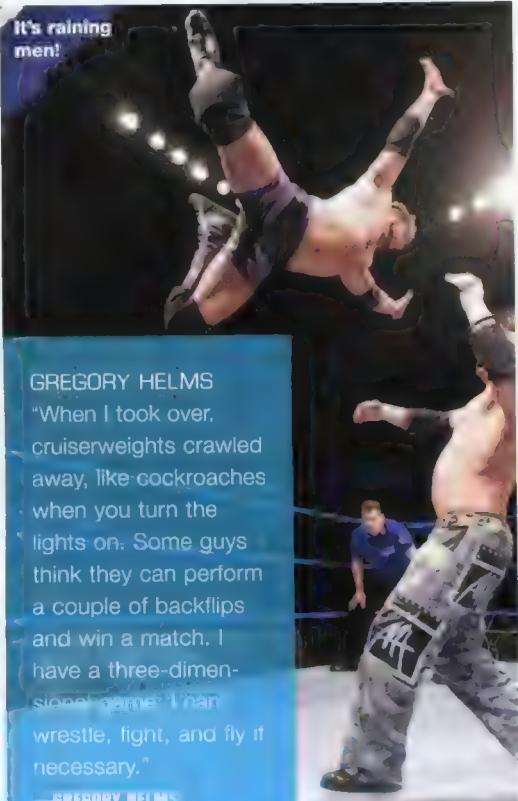

BEST OF 2006

UNEXPECTED PROMO

Edge slaps the taste from Cena's dad's mouth, 8/14 Raw

"That was pretty damn fun. Cena's dad deserved to be slapped. I'd do it again in a nanosecond."—Edge

GREGORY HELMS

"When I took over, cruiserweights crawled away, like cockroaches when you turn the lights on. Some guys think they can perform a couple of backflips and win a match. I have a three-dimensional game. I can wrestle, fight, and fly if necessary."

—GREGORY HELMS

CRUISERWEIGHT OF THE YEAR

FAVORITE STAFF DRINKING GAME

Chugging when JBL makes a sports reference
"The fans understand that I have deep historical knowledge. I'm a Renaissance Man, and references just come off the top of my head. Fans wish, just once in their lives, they could come up with something as quickly as me. And I encourage drinking until you fall down. I've done it most of my life."—JBL

FUNNIEST CROWD CHANT

"Power Ranger"
The chant, directed at Montel Vontavious Porter and his quasi-futuristic duds, is actually more insulting to the Rangers than MVP.

STAREDOWN OF THE YEAR

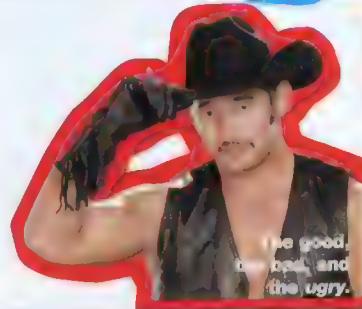

THE GREAT KHALI AND REY MYSTERIO, 5/12 SMACKDOWN

Witnessing poor Rey, only a month into his World Championship reign, getting soundly trounced by Khali was like watching an angry mastiff batting around a helpless kitten.

ASIAN OF THE YEAR

Jimmy Wayne Yang
Mr. Wayne Yang, for your Deep South accent, assless chaps, cowboy hat, and Euro-trash leather getup, we salute you. Sorry, Funaki.

BEST FACIAL HAIR

Jeff Hardy
"Ever since I was able to grow facial hair, I got funky with it. I've always liked to be different and original. As funny as it may seem, I take my facial hair very seriously. I guess I'm just an artiste at heart. I like to modify my body naturally, where it's totally reversible."—JEFF HARDY

BEEF OF THE YEAR

WHO'S LOCKING HORNS?

D-GENERATION X VS. THE McMAHONS

"Everybody would like to stick their boss' head up somebody's else's ass. We just happened to do it."—TRIPLE H

"The McMahons are powerful personalities and DX are powerful characters. We have been rubbing Vince McMahon the wrong way for a long time and it's very easy for him to be frustrated with us."—SHAWN MICHAELS

SHOCKER OF THE YEAR

PAUL HEYMAN
TURNS ON RVD,
7/4 ECW

"Big Show taking the title from me was very emotional. Plus I knew I was going on a 30-day 'hiatus.' And Paul's betrayal hit me in the heart. It felt irreversible, and the way the fans showered the ring with garbage, it felt like they were representing me." —RVD

"It is a testament to the legend of Paul Heyman that the one time I became personally involved, it has such impact that it wins Shocker of the Year. Note to Eric Bischoff, Mr. McMahon, and all who followed in ECW's path—I'm still the guy who knows how to push everybody's buttons, and while controversy may create cash, Heyman reaps its benefits."

—PAUL HEYMAN

DIVA SEARCH REJECT

Erica Chevillar
You might remember this Diva-wannabe. She was the good-looking one with the big yahbobs.

THE JUNIORS

Remember that week when WWE fans were treated to the likes of Super Porky and Short-Sleeve Sampson? Their brief stint in WWE reminded us of just how fun it is to watch short-armed, short-legged little people fight.

HATE SEEING YOU GO

ANNOUNCER OF THE YEAR

"There's always a love affair between me and the fans, because I identify with them. I started my journey as a fan, and I'll end it that way. My philosophy is to earn everybody's respect every time I go out there." —JIM ROSS

HEADSCRATCHER OF THE YEAR

The Kozmo
During ECW's Sci-Fi channel days, we were treated to a crazy, sick, weird visitor. And it wasn't Terry Funk.

Sweet Statuary!
You look fantastic!

HOTTEST DIVA MOMENT

HOTTEST DIVA MOMENT

Candice and Kelly get freaky, 7/11 ECW

"It was kinda cute at first, because she's so young and new to the business. She was so innocent that I almost felt like a pedophile. But I got over it, then went the dominatrix route, because I like to be in control. She's 19 years old—everyone's so precious at that age. But everybody's gotta be broken in, and I broke her in hard." —CANDICE

MOST ANTICIPATED MATCH

JOHN CENA VS. RVD, ECW ONE NIGHT STAND

"Guess you can't be the home team in every match. I knew what I was getting into. People will be talking about it for a long time. But I didn't win, so it didn't live up to my expectations." —JOHN CENA

"Every single person in that arena wanted to see Cena go down. They channeled through me, and I truly understood it—nothing against John." —RVD

BEST CROSSOVER Triple H's Miller Lite commercials

"That was a blast. All the guys that I got to work with—Burt Reynolds, Jerome Bettis, Oscar De La Hoya—all those guys are fun. And it's an important thing to go out there and determine what's important to men. Man laws are a big thing." —TRIPLE H

HOTTEST T-SHIRT

"I'm a Triple H. I came up with 'Sex & Violence'! I never said one of my own advertising lines? Sex and violence—it's that cycle. It happens to be very good at that." —RVD

MOST COWARDLY SUPERSTAR

"Many, many years ago, I believe it was the 1990s, that Triple H who I am, never had to fight another day. I know, most readers think that's cowardly, but for all I can tell, I never had to fight another day. I will sacrifice out the word 'cowardly' and replace it with 'intelligent'." —TRIPLE H

"Oh get up, faker

Bloodiest Match

BIG SHOW VS. RIC FLAIR, 7/11 ECW

"I'm honored to have even set foot in the ring with Ric Flair. I was a little taken aback by how extreme he got." —BIG SHOW

"It didn't bother me being in an extreme rules match. I've been known as a bleeder for 30 years!" —RIC FLAIR

Nip Slip (Thank you!)

LITA SHOWS A LITTLE TOO MUCH DURING HER "LIVE SEX SHOW" WITH EDGE, 1/9 RAW

"I was uncomfortable with it. You should always go with your gut, and I didn't. Afterwards, I felt so humiliated. I try not to think about it. No one's brought it up to my face since. Obviously fans are still talking about it to this day, and it's typical of them to be so heartless." —LITA

FUNNIEST MOMENT

Shawn Michaels superkicks three hapless stooges backstage, Cyber Sunday

"If we can get the guys in the locker room laughing, then it's funny. What I enjoy most is when special things happen in the spur of the moment. As for the poor saps who had to take those kicks, that's probably the most notoriety they've ever had." —SHAWN MICHAELS

BEST OF 2006

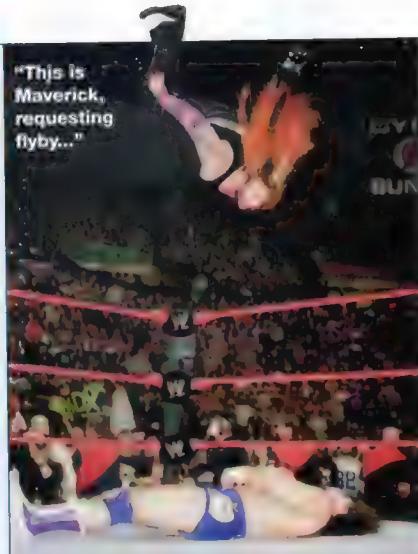

PAUL HEYMAN GETS BLASTED WITH A CUP, FROM A RILED-UP CROWD, 7/4 ECW

"The single most interactive experience an audience member can ever have is attending an ECW event. My disciples must've known how dry my mouth was, and I thank them for quenching my thirst." —PAUL HEYMAN

Most Welcome Return

JEFF HARDY

"This means the world to me, because one of the main reasons I came back was to entertain my fans. I had to be away from it for a while to want to do it again. But I'm ready to roll. When it comes to sports-entertainment , this is the show, this is where it's at." —JEFF HARDY

THE PHANTASIO AWARD

Ugliest Breakup

CHAVO GUERRERO
& REY MYSTERIO

"You have to be together to technically break up. I don't think we ever were. Rey Mysterio was trying to be a Guerrero, and he's not. I asked him to stop; he didn't want to stop, so I had to break his leg. That's the way I take care of things." —CHAVO GUERRERO

MATCH OF THE YEAR

EDGE VS. MICK FOLEY,
WRESTLEMANIA 22

"As much as I hate and despise everyone and everything, I actually appreciate this honor. Mick and I both had a fire lit under us, and our goal was to steal the show at WrestleMania."

"Up until this point, everything is said and done, I'll be remembered for matches like that one. I'm trying to be humble, but anytime that you can beat Mick Foley's ass and get accolades for it, you've accomplished something big." —EDGE

WWE Magazine Behind the Scenes 2006

For the first time ever, editors reveal the most memorable outtakes from the year's never published this year.

Double H

In this classic photo of The Game, achieved by double-exposing the film in the camera, the Superstar is not really yelling. In fact, when many Superstars pose for the camera, they "growl" silently. And yet they still manage to come across as pant-soilingly menacing. Or are we just pussies?

Old soldiers don't fade away, they just sign up for extended tours of duty in their favorite World War II video game franchise. At this point, gamers may feel like they've clocked more man-hours playing through the crucial battles of WWII than our troops actually spent on the ground, but as long as Activision keeps churning out superior shooters like this, we'll keep our guns cocked and boots spit-shined.

While it's not a total re-working of the genre, Call of Duty 3 offers enough new twists to keep the battlefield from growing boring. Levels have multiple objectives and plenty of ambush spots—for meting out justice to dastardly Nazis. A new hand-to-hand combat mechanic requires quick button-mashing reflexes; master it or your tour of duty is going to be real short after the first time a knife-wielding German sticks you in the über alles.

Take on the uniforms of American, British, Canadian and Polish soldiers through campaigns in familiar History Channel settings like Spain and France, leading the allied charge

"Don't shoot until you see the white pixels of their eyes."

after D-Day. Graphics are uniformly great, with detail nicely stepped up from last year's hit Call of Duty 2. One thing still needing an upgrade is the AI—enemy soldiers may be crack shots, but they don't seem to care about marching directly into Allied lines of fire. Of course, that could be why we won the war in the first place. callofduty.com

Best Music Games Ever

THANKS TO THESE TITLES, LACK OF TALENT DOESN'T HAVE TO STAND IN THE WAY OF LIVING THE ROCK 'N' ROLL DREAM.

BEATMANIA 2006 (PS2)

Konami's addictive rhythm game ditched the vinyl, empowering players with a plastic turntable wheel that's wika-wika fun.

TAIKO DRUM MASTER 2004 (PS2)

Combining a drum, sticks, a collection of cheesy Top

40 classics ("Tubthumping"; "Walking on Sunshine") and some cute Namco characters, this game was the perfect party-in-a-box.

DONKEY KONGA 2004 (GameCube)

Donkey Kong was a slave to the rhythm as players got in touch with their inner hippie, pounding plastic bongos alongside classic rock tunes that sent DK running through an obstacle course. What, no Bananarama?

KARAOKE REVOLUTION 2003 (PS2)

This title employed a pick-up-and-mic attachment that subtracted points for singing bum notes. There were special versions for country music and American Idol fans, too.

BANDA DE AMIGO 2000 (SEGA DREAMCAST)

This Latin-themed rhythm game was a cult hit on Sega's Dreamcast console, and required everyone to shake their interactive maracas to "Livin' La Vida Loca."

INTELLIVISION MELODY BLASTER 2001

Wayback Wednesday: Melody Blaster (Intellivision) is a cult classic that's still fun to play. It's a rhythm game in which players must follow a melody as it scrolls across the screen. It's a bit like Rock Band but with a much smaller budget.

GAMES

WARHAWK

[PS3]

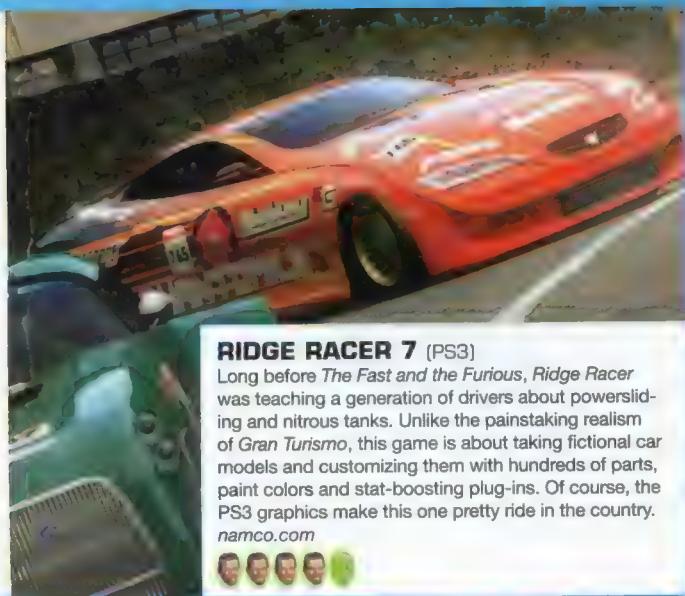

Some gamers get a little too into the experience, swinging their gamepads wildly and leaning into turns when the action heats up. With the PS3 air combat game Warhawk, all that hyperactivity is rewarded—it's one of the first games to take advantage of the new tilt sensor in the PS3 controller. The actual combat is fairly rote, but the hi-def environments and unique control system make it a must-have for wannabe flyboys. us.playstation.com

COLLEGE HOOPS 2K7

[PS3, Xbox 360, PS2, Xbox]

Unlike in the egocentric NBA, team unity is rewarded in 2K's college basketball game. Fill up the "unity meter" by behaving like a team player, and the squad gets passing and defense boosts. Simplified controls mean less wrestling with the thumbstick to pull off slick moves when you take any of 330 college teams all the way. Spirited players can even put together their own fight song. 2ksports.com

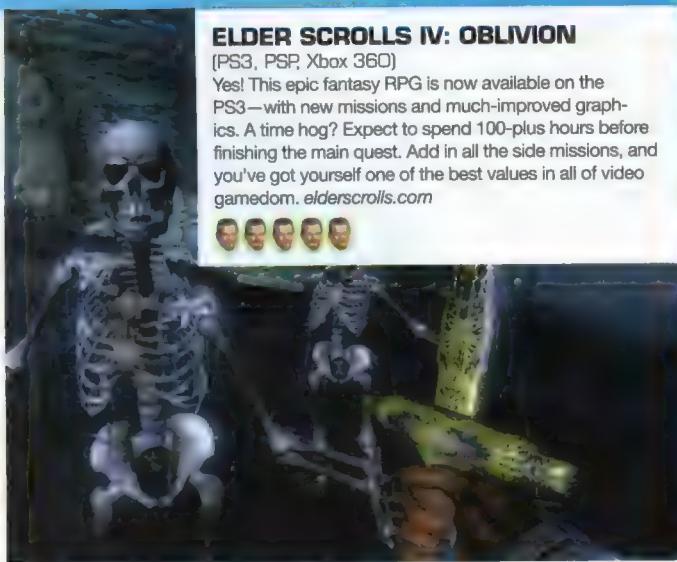

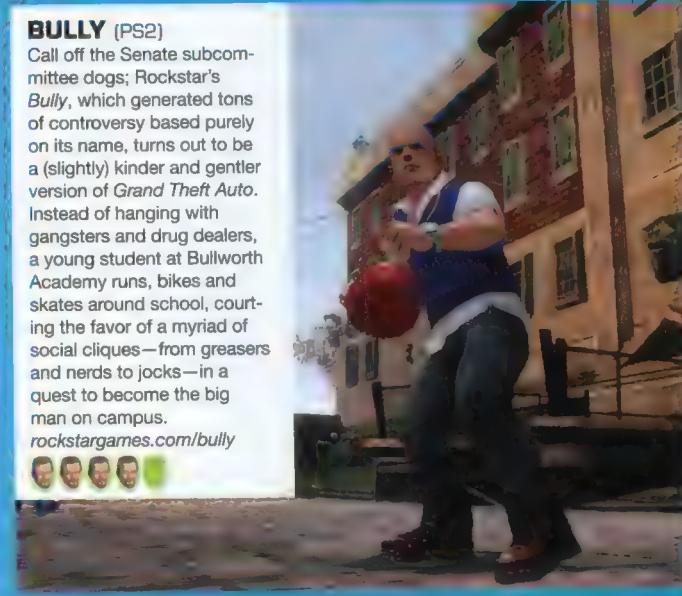

RIDGE RACER 7 [PS3]

Long before The Fast and the Furious, Ridge Racer was teaching a generation of drivers about powersliding and nitrous tanks. Unlike the painstaking realism of Gran Turismo, this game is about taking fictional car models and customizing them with hundreds of parts, paint colors and stat-boosting plug-ins. Of course, the PS3 graphics make this one pretty ride in the country. namco.com

BULLY [PS2]

Call off the Senate subcommittee dogs; Rockstar's Bully, which generated tons of controversy based purely on its name, turns out to be a (slightly) kinder and gentler version of Grand Theft Auto. Instead of hanging with gangsters and drug dealers, a young student at Bullworth Academy runs, bikes and skates around school, courting the favor of a myriad of social cliques—from greasers and nerds to jocks—in a quest to become the big man on campus. rockstargames.com/bully

ELDER SCROLLS IV: OBLIVION

[PS3, PSP, Xbox 360]

Yes! This epic fantasy RPG is now available on the PS3—with new missions and much-improved graphics. A time hog? Expect to spend 100-plus hours before finishing the main quest. Add in all the side missions, and you've got yourself one of the best values in all of video game-dom. elderscrolls.com

GOTHIC 3 [PC]

If there are two things we probably don't need any more of, it's sword-and-sorcery role-playing games and urban car-jacking simulators. Gothic 3 falls firmly in the former category, promising an epic, non-linear experience and a clichéd Humans vs. Orcs storyline. Everything shows promise, from the AI to the incredibly detailed landscapes, but bugs and general lack of polish make this a painfully undercooked experience. gothic3.com

DVD

"When we're on the boat can you call me cap'n?"

MIAMI VICE UNIVERSAL

Chris Noth seems to have the original TV show's style down pat, and the cast—Don and Philip Michael Thomas—haven't lost their cool. The reason you can't read a single plot from the cover (it's not even, but don't forget the back) is that the show will always look like it's looking good and acting cool. What's a great show? That's Miami Vice, with fancy restaurants, legal constabulary, amazing art, and a lead who's always the best dressed. This is your summer viewing guide for black-necked suits versus Dead Man's Chest. Miami Vice is the most fun you can have in a basement property in a sequined mask and fedora. And no two-timing drug fiends ever looked so hot in matching Miami Vice gear as Guilty Pleasure.

BONUS FEATURES A behind-the-scenes look at the second season's filming and the Miami Vice cast's first television appearance with the show's undercover agents and Justified star Tim DeKay.

BEERFEST

(WARNER BROS.)

At this underground competition of beer-guzzling, the main attraction is everyone's favorite frothy, amber fluid. Well, that and Miss Hops (Jolie Martin), who—trust us—looks doable with or without gogog goggles on.

BONUS FEATURES The animated history of beer, as taught by director Jay Chandrasekhar and the Broken Lizard troupe; "Rule #1" featurette detailing the most egregious mishaps from the set and beyond; an exclusive meeting with the film's frog-fluffing expert.

GRIDIRON GANG

(COLUMBIA PICTURES)

Channeling the tough love of Bobby Knight and gridiron savvy of Bill Belichick, The Rock turns a juvey center for street thugs into a football factory that teaches the redemptive power of bashing in dudes' skulls!

BONUS FEATURES A cool, multi-angle breakdown of one of the flick's hardest hitting football scenes; behind-the-scenes look at the cast's grueling training camp; The Rock, a former Miami Hurricanes football star, talking X's and O's.

JET LI'S FEARLESS

(ROGUE PICTURES)

In the world of chopsocky, laws of physics matter less than the need for revenge. With fights choreographed by legendary Yuen Wo Ping (Kill Bill: Vol. 2), allegedly retiring martial arts touchstone Jet Li bows out with some of the most outrageous airborne combat scenes of the year.

BONUS FEATURES This unrated edition contains explosive fight scenes not shown in theaters, while the featurette "A Fearless Journey" lets Jet Li explain the making of his martial arts epic.

PIRATES OF THE CARIBBEAN: DEAD MAN'S CHEST

(WALT DISNEY)

What Johnny Depp's fey Jack Sparrow was to the original—that is, the garish but impossible-to-ignore center of attention—Bill Nighy's octopus-headed villain Davy Jones is to the sequel. This voodoo-and-gunships adventure sits in the harbor a little long but ultimately delivers the booty.

BONUS FEATURES Sword training with Orlando Bloom, Keira Knightley and Jack Davenport; analysis of the true story behind the Dead Man's Chest mystery; a head-to-toe rundown of Johnny Depp's Captain Jack costume.

JACKASS: NUMBER TWO

(PARAMOUNT)

With carnie sideshow stunts that gave Jackass its regal name (Steve-O jams a fishhook through his cheek), this latest epic of pranking and self-abuse is most impressive for demonstrating the human body's utter resilience—and the brain's inability to stop it from behaving badly.

BONUS FEATURES Twenty-nine additional segments, along with nasty outtakes scraped off the cutting room floor; seven unrated (read: nauseating) segments.

MOVIES

It could be worse—you could be staying at Stamford Motor Lodge.

HOSTEL: PART II (LIONSGATE)

You'd think after seeing his buddies decapitated, losing a couple of fingers, and being forced to yank the scorched eye out of a Japanese tourist's skull, backpacker Paxton (Jay Hernandez) would retreat from Europe faster than the French army. However, this Quentin Tarantino-produced, Eli Roth-directed sequel picks up where the original left off, with Paxton clutching his mangled hand on a train and plotting his next move. Vengeance gets a little tricky when it's revealed that secret killing club Elite Hunting isn't just a mom-and-pop chop shop supplying victims to wealthy sadists, but a franchise with more outlets than Mickey D's. Three girlfriends spending a summer in Italy are the latest naïve Americans who are hostel-bound. And you thought the Euro exchange rate was a killer.

ZODIAC (PARAMOUNT)

Fight Club and Panic Room director David Fincher builds a tense thriller from the unsolved case of the Zodiac Killer, whose random murders and cryptic messages terrorized the Bay Area during the psychedelic era. Detectives Mark Ruffalo and Anthony Edwards prove once again that the authorities aren't always as smart as the psychos.

HOME OF THE BRAVE (MGM)

In the tradition of The Best Years of Our Lives and Coming Home, this big-budget melodrama examines the post-traumatic stress suffered by returning soldiers. Samuel L. Jackson, 50 Cent, and the flag-pole-raising Jessica Biel—as the hottest fighting machine in the history of armed forces—lead this star-studded cast.

THE ASTRONAUT FARMER (WARNER BROS.)

If anyone can save a film from the worst tagline ever—"One small step for man. One giant leap for farmers"—it's Billy Bob Thornton, who plays a NASA astronaut-turned-agriculturist who cheats up to Bruce Willis and a slew of government killjoys trying to stop him from building his own rocket. Just another common man trying to get by in the heartland.

ALPHA DOG (UNIVERSAL)

Based on the true story of Jesse James Hollywood—a SoCal drug dealer who at 19 became one of youngest ever on the FBI's most wanted list—this tale of good-kids-turned-bad-asses stars Emile Hirsch as "Johnny Truelove." The hardest pill to swallow? Pretty thang Justin Timberlake attempting to play a stone-cold thug.

MR. FUJI'S MOVIE PICKS

We found Harry Connick Jr. having tickets at a Krocplex in N.Y. Pickleby and asked him if anything would make it okay.

SAW III

The third entry in the franchise is the best yet. Guy O'Conor has to figure out how to get his wife and son home alive. The only catch is that it's now a family affair. (R) 10/10

THE SANTA CLAUSE 2

Very funny sequel to the original. Santa's back, and the new kid on the block is a kid who's been taken away from his parents. (PG) 8/10

THE DEPARTED

It's like GoodFellas in Boston. The plot is so complex, it's hard to explain. But it's a great movie. (R) 10/10

RATATOUILLE

Most Pixar movies are good, but this one is a masterpiece. An old chef who can't cook anymore gets a job at a restaurant and finds his inner child. (PG) 10/10

THE PRESTIGE

That's the word. Christopher Nolan's latest is a mind-bending, heart-pounding, and visually stunning film. (R) 10/10

ANOTHER iPOD CHALLENGER

The 30GB Microsoft Zune hopes to convert some among the iPod faithful with its built-in Wi-Fi, a feature Apple has yet to integrate into its players. The wireless tech lets Zune users beam songs (under limited circumstances) and photos to one another. But is that enough for you to forgo your nano cred?

INSTANT VACATION

Rand McNally, America's favorite travel map publisher, is finally embracing 21st Century technology with the release of its GPS Navigator. The bone-simple doodad comes pre-loaded with 26 McNally-endorsed road trip itineraries, and calls out the turn-by-turn directions for those who can't read a map. Yes, we're talking about you, ladies.

SUPER CELL

Remember when a cell phone was considered cutting-edge if it had a crappy integrated digital camera? Ha! The Nokia N75 raises the bar with a two-megapixel camera, plus an FM radio, video player, Bluetooth 2.0 and expandable memory. Bonus: The phone can handle any major music format, and its outer faceplate has handy shortcuts for playing tunes without having to be flipped open—this way, no one has to see that you're rocking out to "I'm Every Woman."

The HP Photosmart A516 photo printer looks like an old-time toaster and is nearly as inexpensive as one. And yet this surprisingly advanced gadget can spit out high-quality 4x6, panoramic and passport-sized prints, and perform color adjustment and red-eye correction. Can your toaster do that?

CAMERA PHOTOBOOK

When your chum denies ever sporting a Tatanka-style mullet, refresh his selective memory with proof stored on your Sony Cyber-shot DSC-N2. The 10-megapixel shooter, with 3x optical zoom, will hold up to 500 low-res pics of your buddy's crash helmet in its built-in photo library. Is he still refuting the evidence? A much higher-res shot can be printed in humiliating poster-size!

CORPORATE CARRY-ON

Here's a realistic New Year's resolution: 1280x800. Combine the Acer TravelMate 6460's bright 15.4-inch WXGA TFT display with ATI's Mobility Radeon X1300 chipset and you get one stunning picture. The image quality is only outshined by the laptop's Intel Core 2 Duo processor, which delivers blazingly fast PC gaming action. It's a bionic cheetah, and at only seven pounds, it will lighten your step, too.

WWE'S TENACIOUS FANATICS

Troubadours Jack Black and Kyle Gass dish on the filming of Tenacious D in The Pick Of Destiny, meeting Meat Loaf, and battling pants-soaking bog ass.

Think you rock stars could hack it in the WWE tag team division?

JB First thing, I'd rename us "Quest For Fire." We'd come out dressed as cavemen and carry torches.

If you had torches, why would you be on a quest for fire?

JB Good point.

KG It sounded cool.

You guys have the distinction of working with Meat Loaf in this flick. Big fans?

JB I was definitely a "Paradise By The Dashboard Light" guy. I remember eating a delicious cheese quesadilla while watching that video.

Your best on-set Meat Loaf story?

JB He did tell us about the time he put the smackdown on Robert Plant for talking trash about rock 'n' roll. Apparently, Robert Plant claimed that America had no soul, so Meat Loaf grabbed him by the lapel and threw him on the bar and said something scary. I can't remember what, though.

KG I think he said, "Hey, man, we Americans do have soul."

JB That just shut him up.

Will taking a girl to your new movie guarantee a guy some action?

KG Good question. She's probably not going to want to jump on you right away, but the film will slowly take her over.

JB It's a creeper.

Just curious, do you guys have a secret for refueling after sex?

KG Peanut butter and bananas.

JB It's got all the necessary protein and potassium to rebuild muscles.

KG Potassium is crucial to sex.

JB What's a monkey without the banana?

Finally, offer fans sage advice on dealing with bog ass.

KG I usually stick something up my butt.

JB Kyle goes the extra mile.

KG It's called a butt tampon. It goes between the cheeks, and soaks up the extra sweat. Lots of times. I'll throw it into the audience halfway through the show.

JB Believe it or not, people actually fight over them.

FOLLYWOOD

With Raw in L.A., it was only fitting that the Superstars rubbed elbows with Hollywood A-listers. Still, who could have expected Steve-O to get splattered by Umaga and K-Fed to have his ass handed to him—physically and verbally—by John Cena?

A GIANT STEP FOR MANKIND

For the first time since invading ECW on July 4, Big Show suffered a pinfall defeat. The loss came at the hands of RVD, but alas, it was a non-title encounter, meaning the Extreme Giant could keep his meaty paws on the ECW Championship. For now.

With his World title on the line one more time against relentless challenger Batista, King Booker was lucky to have ECW Champion Big Show seated ringside. THE SAC

When it comes to gossip, I'm full of it...

During WWE's recent overseas tour, it seems a current titleholder got his kicks ambushing other Superstars in their hotel rooms. Rumor has it the unfortunate stooge who gave him the room numbers was made to pay for his transgressions. Word life.

One of WWE's hottest Divas gave bar patrons a treat when she was rolled into a drinking establishment wearing nothing but her skivvies! Who was it? I can't say, but no stinkfaces were administered.

Whb was unhappy that he didn't win any year-end WWE Magazine awards? This former Jerk of the Month may have a bone to pick with us. Good thing we're not legends yet.

One motorist was treated to a hilarious roadway encounter when he pulled up next to an oversized ECW Extremist on a moped!

A certain criminal element from Raw had some trouble holding his liquor on a charter bus recently. Let's just say we wouldn't want to be the ones to clean up the mess.

When CM Punk graciously agreed to make a "metal" mix CD for one WWE Superstar, he was specifically instructed not to include "any powerballads." Guess this guy isn't edgy enough.

Which supercharged former Intercontinental Champ may have severely injured his ankle in a recent title match, and is now hiding the limp? Maybe his title reign may not be so Extreme after all.

WWE ORIGINAL

ANGELO SAVOLDI HELPED RUN WWE WHEN VINCE WAS IN SHORT PANTS. AT 92, HE'S STILL GOING STRONG.

Breaking into the business back in 1937, Angelo Savoldi couldn't have known where his career would go. A multi-time Junior Heavyweight Champion, he met Vince McMahon Sr. in the '40s and by 1957 was running the New England branch of Sr.'s territory. He'd be one of the integral members of the company's inner circle until his 1981 retirement, months before Vince's son took over. "It's not like it was," says Savoldi, "But how can you knock success? The kid came up with different ideas and it worked out really good."

The 19th annual Royal Rumble kicks off 2007 WWE-style Super Sunday!

FANTASY WARFARE

TATANKA VS. CHIEF JAY STRONGBOW

Nothing satisfies a man's primal rage like a tomahawk-throwing, headdress-wearing Native American brawl. Yee, yee, yee, yee!!!

FINAL ANALYSIS

Although both warriors have intimidating finishers and an impressive résumé, Tatanka represents the next generation of Native American Superstar. Faster, stronger and in better condition than his Hall of Fame predecessor, it would only be a matter of time before he dismantled the Chief—if he could avoid falling victim to the war dance, that is. Winner: Tatanka

DECEMBER'S
GUESS THE MATCH

BRET HART VS. SKINNER
Tuesday in Texas 1991

WHAT IT FELT LIKE

After a year of being manhandled, editor Matt Christensen looks back on the abuse, and looks forward to 12 more months of pain.

AUGUST 2006 TOMMY DREAMER

"A caning from The Innovator of Violence was the inaugural beating. Needless to say, I was terrified. When we met, Tommy was relatively friendly; the crack of bamboo on my spine was not."

SEPTEMBER 2006 EDGE

"I'll never forget how eager Edge was to chop me. I tried hard to puff up my chest, but Edge was quick to deflate it. I nearly threw up in the hall, and the hand print stuck around for a good three days."

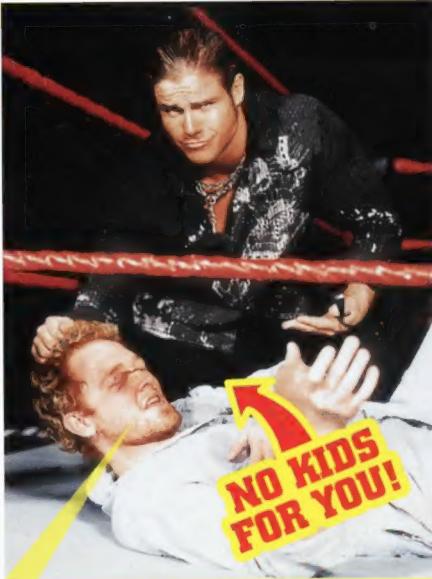

OCTOBER 2006 MATT STRIKER

"Matt Striker was a jerk. I'm lucky that all I got was an open-handed slap, or else I'd be chewing with someone else's teeth right now. No remorse, no regret, and not even a flinch from Striker. What a dildo."

NOVEMBER 2006 SHELTON BENJAMIN

"I've been kicked in the head plenty of times. But, I've never been kicked by a 245-pound former Intercontinental Champion. I had a big red welt on my face for most of the day, and my jaw felt completely unhinged."

DECEMBER 2006 JOHNNY NITRO

"The first thing I realized was how incredibly hard it is to stand on the top rope. But, I didn't have to think about that for long, because I quickly fell onto my nuts, flipped, and bled my face on the middle rope."

HOLIDAY 2006 VISCERA

"Viscera insisted there's only one way he throws people into the steel steps—hard. Based on the loss of my shoe, my breath, and nearly my consciousness, I'd have to agree with him. I can't wait for 2007!"
